

Tuskegee University Athletic Hall of Fame

Anderson Smallwood

Class of 1933

ANDERSON SMALLWOOD - a star football and basketball player while at Tuskegee, and an all conference center on the basketball team.

Anderson is a certified tobacco grader and an expert on grooming and caring for those Kentucky thoroughbred horses. While he was serving his country in World War II, his wife, the former Miss Francis Stevens of Tuskegee, was making her contributions by serving as a nurse in her native hometown, Tuskegee.

Smallwood retired from his major job with the United States Postal Service last year. He is now enjoying his retirement with his wife, but he is still active in civic and religious affairs in his hometown of Lexington, Kentucky. Of course, he can't stay away from thoroughbred horse stables and those tobacco auction sales.